

NEED JOURNAL ARTICLES? TRY USING LOANSOME DOC!

Loansome Doc is a Web-based system maintained by the National Library of Medicine that allows users to order full-text copies of articles through their local Medical Library.

PubMed Searching: In order to access the Loansome Doc system, you must first search the PubMed database. Select PubMed from this site's Home Page. Contact the Librarian for the Username and Password.

Once your Medline search has produced a list of articles, put checks in the boxes next to the articles that you would like to receive in full-text format. Then, place them in the Clipboard, using the Send To link. Then click on the "Clipboard". You will now see a list of the articles you selected.

Some of your selected articles may be freely available as full-text online. Change Summary to Abstract and look for links to "Free article" or "ERH Online".

If you now wish to order the articles that you could not obtain online, select Order from the Send To link.

Loansome Doc Registration: The first time that you use the Loansome Doc system, you will need to register. Select "Sign Up!" Follow these steps to complete your registration:

- Step 1: Click on "skip this step".
- Step 3: For the Library Identifier enter NYUJBH.
- Step 4: Contrary to the instruction, you need not contact the library before proceeding. Select your user category.
- Step 5: Read and accept the policies.
- Step 6: Enter all your information.
- Step 7: Click on "Complete Registration".

For questions regarding Loansome Doc, contact Librarian Mary Evans at 647-6400 ext. 230 or library@ellenvilleregional.org.